

A MEDIEVAL MARRIAGE

IN olden times, when it was customary for a maiden to wear her hair hanging about the shoulders, she spent hours each day in its care. If she were an aristocrat, she spent many hours in the hands of her servants, to whom were entrusted the important duties of cleansing, brushing and anointing the tresses.

At present, the up-to-date woman, with the aid of science, gains more hair-benefit in a few moments than did her sister of the middle ages by hours of effort, for scarcely any time is required for a scalp stimulating, health-giving shampoo with

CANTHROX

AT our expense you may enjoy the exhilarating effect of its creamy, delicately perfumed, purifying lather. You will then have the delightful sensation of knowing that your scalp and hair are absolutely free from dirt, dust, dandruff and excess oil.
